Community flute event at University of Redlands with Walfrid Kujala

His piccolo playing was fantastic and he went through the alternate fingers, how they can help you as a player get through some of the tough stuff, he took Mozart's Overture to marriage of figaro, used it as an example. And then transposed it, says that he makes his students do that as a etude to give them faster fingers.

Flute society members that where there were Rama, Heidi Knight, Karen Hansen, teacher members Jackie Aronowitz and Sara Andon. Anne Savy was there too.

Festival, in the hopes that we would unveil our new design at this event. Unfortunately, only 1 person submitted designs.

We would like to try again in the hope to provide everyone a chance to voice their opinion. Simply put together a picture that would best depict this flute society's goal of enhancing flute playing in this area.

Everyone is welcome to submit something, at our next meeting we will look at all the designs and choose a winner. The winner will receive a year's membership in the IEVFS.

Let's get down to it and everyone submit something.

In two weeks, my first CD will be available, which will include all the solos in the book "Concert & Contest Collections" for Flute & Piano. My goal is to provide a resource on a great book of solos for both students and teachers. All the works from this book will be included in order, providing everyone the chance to hear these pieces as they are presented in this collection. I've recorded it with flute and piano, giving the opportunity to supplement rehearsals with a recorded version. If you're interested in hearing a sample, feel free to email me. If you're interested in purchasing a copy, the cost is $15, please add $2.50 for shipping.
